Julia Fitchett is presently the Chef De Cuisine at The Kitchen at The Historic Powhatan Resort in Williamsburg, Virginia. The Kitchen at Powhatan is one of the area's top restaurants, serving elegantly presented, delightfully delicious, nouveau cuisine. Legendary service accompanies the generous, tantalizing portions. When visiting Williamsburg, the quaintly charming Kitchen at Powhatan is not to be missed.

The restaurant is a small intimate get away for vacationers and many locals favorite, for fine dining with a flare and has won the Wine Spectator Award. Julia has been Chef at The Kitchen since 2002, previously working at the prestigious Williamsburg Inn as Chef Garde Manger.

Growing up surrounded by the Food and Beverage industry, with both brothers in the industry, Julia started her cooking career at Colonial Williamsburg, working under Executive Chef Hans Shadler. Encouraged by Chef Shadler to pursue a culinary career, Julia graduated from Johnson and Wales University in 1997 with an Associates Degree in Culinary Arts. After graduating, Julia has worked with great chefs at The Williamsburg Inn in Colonial Williamsburg, and has also participated in numerous community events such as the "Hospice Support Care of Williamsburg", the "Aids Benefit" auction, Child Development Resources events and many others. Julia has also worked at the Governor's Mansion, the PGA Golf Tournament/Western Open at Cog Hill in Illinois and the James Beard Celebrity Chefs Golf Tournament. Julia's menus and creativity are acknowledged and appreciated by those in the highest echelons of private, corporate and government circles.
